

4.3 Lifelong learning measures

4.3.1 Does your university as a body provide free access to educational resources for those not studying at the university, e.g. computers, library, online courses, access to lectures, etc?

Due to the transition to the New Normal Era after the COVID-19 pandemic and its outbreak prevention, in the beginning of 2022, the USU still limited some activities related to offline service access, such as borrowing books for guest users in the USU Library. However, USU provided free internet service (WIFI) for external users within the surrounding area and other facilities, such as USU Park, sports areas, and others, by following the health protocols. In addition, USU also provided free access to online educational information, such as videos, podcasts, and news. These were created by the university, departments, or lecturers as learning media or parts of community service programs covering varied fields of study and issues beneficial not only for the USU students but also for the public not studying at the USU.
